2009 AL Fellows

Jamie has been retained as a consultant on several occasions by 2009 AL Fellow Shelly London in her capacity as President of a large family foundation in New York. The foundation primarily funds disability organizations and institutes major initiatives in the disability field. Shelly has retained Jamie for legal and disabilities awareness projects, and they have worked closely and collaboratively. Jamie practiced law in the private sector for nearly 25 years, and then co-founded in 2003 and served for 8 years as Executive Director of a non-profit that created a unique method for disabilities awareness programs in schools and workplaces.

Veronica Biggins
Rev. Raymond Jetson
Clifton Peay

2010 AL Fellows

Clifton chairs The Roman Barnes Society, a professional organization of African American physicians specializing in diseases of the eye. The organization last month convened a health care forum on the “Affordable Health Care Act” which included a distinguished panel in New Orleans at The Sheraton Canal. The panel included the President of Alcon USA and Canada, Senior Medical Executive Cigna Mid Atlantic as well as 2010 AL Fellow and Managing Director, Diversified Search, Veronica Biggins. 2010 AL Fellow Rev. Raymond Jetson gave the opening invocation.

2011 AL Fellow

Anna is the founder of The Gettysburg Project and Fund on Civic Engagement, working on building alternative funding models for the progressive movement and new models for engaging people in America on the critical issues of our day based on science, fact, ethics and the common good. In partnership with the Roosevelt Institute, the 3 year convening of civic engagement practitioners and academics is taking off. The Gettysburg Project and Fund on Civic Engagement is housed at the Harvard University Ash Center for Democratic Governance and Innovation.

The initiative to create alternative funding models has solid supporters. Anna now hopes to partner with the Democracy Alliance on Alternative Funding and Sustainability.
Vincent de Luise, M.D.

2013 AL Fellow

Vincent was recently featured in Connecticut Magazine, "As Harvard Fellow, Connecticut Physician Seeks to Cure Healthcare’s Ills—With Opera & the Arts." The article highlights Vincent’s AL project work and his continued efforts to bring about more compassionate, engaged healthcare professionals.

Just this past week, 2014 AL Fellows and partners attended a multi-day introduction to Harvard. The new cohort visited multiple schools around Harvard and met with faculty and deans. They learned more about Harvard, its course offerings, and the many opportunities available to them when they begin in January. There are 38 AL Fellows and 7 AL Partners for 2014, plus a few continuing Senior AL Fellows from 2013. As you can see, ALI has enjoyed steady growth; we are now being viewed by many others as a model; at least one major university will start something similar in 2015. Please see below for the full list of Fellows.

I wish you a happy holiday season and wonderful new year.
