SAVE THE DATE

2015 Final Symposium

Wednesday, November 18 – Thursday, November 19, 2015

Harvard University, Cambridge, MA

2015

Tushara Canekaratne, 2015 AL Fellow

Tushara Canekaratne was awarded an Honorary Doctorate from Loughborough University earlier this month in recognition of her significant successes in global information technology and for her outstanding contributions to a range of charitable organizations.

Canekaratne was one of seven people to be awarded an honorary degree at Loughborough University's summer graduation ceremonies.

2014

Jeff Gilling, 2014 AL Fellow

Jeff Gilling's AL project, MatchLink Institute, is implementing a model that will transform small business entrepreneurs to bridge the gap that exists between their current capabilities and the infrastructure that exists within distressed communities. Earlier this month, the IRS granted approval of 501c3 public charity status for MatchLink.

2013

Ann MacDougall, 2013 AL Fellow

Ann recently penned an article, "How Boomers Can Provide a Triple Win for America" featured on Forbes.com. In her piece, Ann calls for the development of a "Boomer Corps," an army of experienced leaders loaded with skills who can offer a triple win for America: advanced healthy aging, financial security and social impact.

2012

Anne Punzak Marcus, 2012 AL Fellow

Anne Punzak Marcus is the Co-Founder and CFO of Navitome, software that gives its customers a fast, intuitive, and affordable way to map out complex, variable, human-centered processes, optimize those processes for clarity and efficiency, and then deliver them to employees or customers in the form of individualized, step-by-step interactive guides. This spring, MassChallenge, a global startup competition and accelerator program, named Navitome one of 2015's most promising startups from a pool of over 2,200 applicants. "The 200+ startups that will be entering our 2015 accelerator include many of the highest-impact startups in the world," said MassChallenge CEO John Harthorne.

Paul Irving, 2010 AL Fellow

Paul Irving recently wrote an article for the Huffington Post, "New Frontier for Successful Aging: Financial Gerontology in the Spotlight at White House Conference on Aging" in which Paul stresses the importance of financial gerontology for America's aging population. In order for all Americans to have the opportunity to achieve their dreams "at any age," the financial health of older adults is key.

Professor Rosabeth Moss Kanter
Ernest L. Arbuckle Professor of Business Administration
Harvard Business School
Chair and Director, Advanced
Leadership Initiative

Professor Kanter was recently interviewed for a feature article in the Vineyard Gazette, “Rosabeth Moss Kanter Issues Call to Put Nation’s Infrastructure Back in the Fast Lane.” The piece highlights “Move: Putting America’s Infrastructure Back in the Lead,” her motivations for writing the book, and some key calls to action that Kanter provides in order to begin making improvements to America’s transportation systems.

Professor Howard K. Koh
Professor of the Practice of Public Health Leadership
Director of the Leading Change Studio
Harvard School of Public Health

Last month, Professor Koh delivered the 2015 commencement address at Oregon State University and also received an honorary doctorate. In his commencement speech, Professor Koh expressed his hope that OSU graduates who pay at least some attention to his speech leave with three key take-aways. First: “Stand for something. ... If you don’t stand for something, you’ll fall for anything.” Second: “Encourage the heart, because connecting with people is really the key to personal and professional success. Third: “Stay as flexible as possible while you pursue your mission.”

Message from the Chair

On behalf of the Advanced Leadership faculty board, it is my hope that you have all had an enjoyable, productive summer, or for readers in the Southern Hemisphere, winter. Current AL Fellows, I expect that these last few months were met with successful project development. I look forward to your continued work progress throughout the upcoming months, into Final Symposium, and beyond. I hope to see all AL Fellows, past and present, AL faculty, and friends of ALI at the exciting and important capstone event, Final Symposium, on November 18th and 19th.
